HOOVER ANSWERS CRITICS IN DENIAL OF COMMISSION MOVE

DECLARES HE ASKED ONLY ORGANIZED NON-PARTISAN UNIT

PRESIDENT IN QUICK REBUTTAL ASKS COOPERATION TO REDUCE EXPENDITURES

Washington—President Hoover, in a statement Tuesday denied that he asked formation of "another commission" in his message to congress Monday calling for non-partisan cooperation for a national plan of government economy.

"What I asked for in my message Monday," the president said in his press conference Tuesday, "was organized non-partisan cooperation by all forces to reduce government expenditures in the national emergency."

Jones supports Hoover. Meanwhile in the senate Tuesday Senator Jones, republican, Washington, introduced a resolution to make effective President Hoover's recommendations for creation of a joint commission to study economic reorganization of the executive departments.

Jones proposes a committee of three senators, three representatives and three members appointed by the president. It would be required to report 30 days after adoption of the resolution.

The president pointed out in firm language that for the last seven years he had recommended "authorization to the executive to make a wholesale reorganization of government functions."

He said he had done this to eliminate overlap and "do away with waste."

"The action recommended has not been taken," he said.

Mr. Hoover's statement was a swift rebuttal to criticism of his message.

President Hoover urged action as follows:

1. Direct reduction of appropriations.
2. Economies through changes in laws governing activities of executive departments and bureaus which must be continued until congress orders otherwise.
3. Consolidation of government bureaus to eliminate overlapping and useless bureaus and commission.

He refrained however from singling out bureaus by name.

President Hoover laid down his program in talking with newspaper correspondents at the very moment today that Speaker John N. Garner was expressing to correspondents at the capitol his dissatisfaction with Mr. Hoover's economy message of Monday and calling upon the president to submit definite recommendations.

DARROW PASSES ON 6 JURYMEN "HONOR" KILLING TRIAL OPENS

Courtroom, Honolulu, T. H.—Half a dozen prospective jurors drawn from Hawaii's strange "melting pot" occupied the box Tuesday as Clarence Darrow dropped his studied wariness and like a roaring lion prepared for the second day's battle in the defense of our accused American "honor slayers."

Calm and unruffled until a wordy conflict over the "unwritten law" appeared to go against him, Darrow threw aside his pose as if it were his loose-fitting coat.

Shouting and gesticulating to judge and venire in the crowded little court, he was again the militant warrior who pleaded for John Scopes, the Chicago thrill slayers, the Los Angeles Times bombers and George Pettibone of Idaho.

Seated beside him at a counsel table, they watched as he parried for a chance to link their asserted victim, Joe Kahahawai, with an attack on Mrs. Fortescue's daughter, Thalia Fortescue Massie.

The patrician society woman's son-in-law, Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, jointly accused with her, leaned forward and gripped his chair as the name of his girl-wife was mentioned. The other two defendants, E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, hazy enlisted men, apparently were embarrassed in the strange surroundings.

Six prospective jurors finally were passed until court convened Tuesday morning. They were Henry Beckley, part Hawaiian; Duke Wong, impassive, round-faced Chinese; Bankston, an electrician born in Los Angeles; W. R. Chellgard, white, salesman; Charles Akana, Hawaiian-Japanese, and Hisata Imada, Japanese, carpenter.

K. C. Couple Parents One-Pound Baby Believed Smallest Full Developed Child Ever Born Alive

Kansas City, Mo.—Sound and symmetrical, a one-pound baby boy, believed to be the smallest child ever born alive, carried forward a stout fight for life here Tuesday.

And doctors gave the tiny boy, less than fourteen inches long, his doubled fists about as large as his 6-foot father's thumbnail, an excellent chance to win.

The baby, physicians said, is only early and undernourished, but he is fully developed.

Mr. and Mrs. William St. John, the parents, were caught unprepared by the arrival, which was two and one-half months earlier than expected. They had a few baby clothes laid away, but even these were far too big.

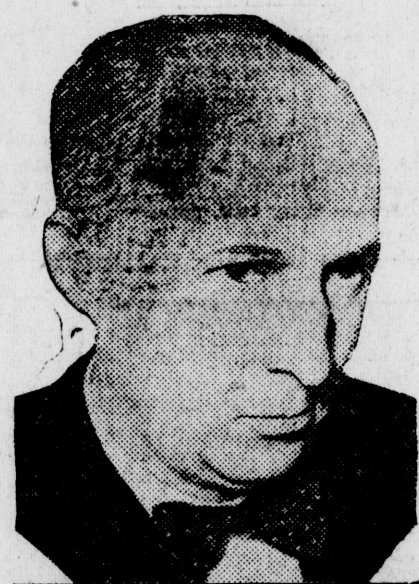

Nestled in soft clothes, the child slept today in a cardboard box for a crib.

His mattress was a nest of hot water bags, and the box once had contained a dozen cans of coffee.

The father is 18 years old, the mother 17. They have been married about a year.

MANKATO MAN CHOSEN 'RUMPERS' CANDIDATE

Wins Apology, and Cash From Cal

"My mistake and here's $2500 for it" was the substance of an apology given Lewis B. Tebbets, above, St. Louis insurance man, by former President Calvin Coolidge pictured below. Tebbets had sued Coolidge for $100,000, claiming that a recent radio address of the former president had injured his business. Coolidge had warned the public against the so-called "twister" who offers to save money by placing life insurance policies in another company.

SCIENCE WILLING TO AID "MAN WITHOUT MEMORY" IF HE CONSENTS EXAMINATION

Philadelphia.—Science will try to aid Tobias Burke, "the man without a memory," if he will give his consent.

His family, who searched for the shell-shocked world war veteran 11 years to find him recently in Chicago and returned him to his former home in Philadelphia, arranged Tuesday for him to visit a psychiatrist.

The "man without a memory" contends he is "Joe Bond" and recalls nothing of his family.

Brought face to face with his four brothers, a sister, a 66-year-old ill mother, his wife and 11-year-old son, Burke said to each: "I'm sorry, I don't know you."

Burke was taken to Germantown by his brothers to visit an "old friend."

The "old friend" was his wife, Carrie L. Burke.

"Toby," she cried, "Oh, Toby!" But Toby did not remember.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The "Rumpers" list of state candidates in the Democratic primary was announced Tuesday as the fourth ticket entered the field.

At the recent state Democratic convention, a number of delegates opposed to an instructed delegation for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York withdrew and selected their own delegates, pledged but favorably to former Governor Alfred E. Smith, to the Chicago convention.

These "Rumpers" announced their state slate would be headed by John E. Regan, Mankato, as a candidate for governor.

Other candidates are as follows: Lieutenant-Governor—Ruth Haynes Carpenter, Minneapolis.

Secretary of State—C. E. Erickson, Dunth, or Gerald V. Barron, Cloquet.

Attorney General—Ray Nonan, Waseca.

Treasurer—Henry Wessel, St. Paul.

Selection of state candidates by the regular Democratic organization was left to the state committee, which as yet has not acted on the proposed Democratic-Farmer-Labor fusion. Under this plan, the Democrats would set up a "weak" state slate to oppose Governor Floyd E. Olson in return for Farmer-Labor support of a "Progressive" Democrat as president. Governor Olson was understood to consider Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt as coming under that qualification.

Reports were circulated Tuesday that Tom Davis, Minneapolis attorney, might enter the Republican primary against Earle Brown, endorsed by the state party conference, and that Mayor Julius Reiter of Rochester might oppose Olson in the Farmer-Labor primary.

Poison Milk Causes Deaths Farmer, Two Sons

Tabor, Minn.—Coroner H. E. Nelson Tuesday announced that a father and his two small sons found dead in their beds Monday night had died from drinking poisoned milk.

The father, Resida LaJambe, 35, a cream buyer, apparently poisoned the milk, fed it to his sons, Wallace, 4 and Robert, 2 and then partook of it himself, Nelson said.

Their bodies were found after authorities entered his house on a request from his wife in Grand Forks.

Although there was no definite indication that Major Schoeffel had started north, the Daily Sketch said he had left Scotland Yard with two members of the criminal investigations department. He was believed to have gone to Birmingham enroute to Glasgow.

Hopewell, N. J.—A new mystery was injected into the Lindbergh baby kidnapping with return of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to his estate today, the second consecutive night he has been away on a secret mission.

Colonel H. Norman Schwartzkopf, superintendent of New Jersey state police, said in his press conference today:

"Investigators are out this morning on information received through the mail and further reports on their findings will be given in a further bulletin."

Meantime one metropolitan newspaper reported that the Lindbergh family had made four definite contacts with the supposed kidnappers.

Dawes' Niece to Wed

Dr. Trebor D. Stamp of London, son of the noted English economist, Sir Josiah Stamp, journeyed to Chicago, Ill., where he will wed Miss Frances Bosworth, society girl and niece of Charles G. Dawes, recent ambassador to Great Britain. Miss Bosworth and Dr. Stamp are pictured above in the Evanston, Ill., home of Miss Bosworth. Dr. Stamp's famous father and mother will attend the wedding April 5. The couple met when Miss Bosworth was a guest of the Dawes family in London.

IMPORTANT BREAK APRIL PRIMARIES LINDBERGH SEARCH DENOTE TREND OF HINTED IN LONDON NOMINATION POWER

London.—An important break in the search for kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby was expected momentarily Tuesday, with resources of London's famous Scotland Yard man-hunters at the disposal of Major Charles Schoeffel of the New Jersey state police.

The dramatic and mysterious arrival of Major Schoeffel, and his disappearance was cleared up when it became known that the New Jersey official had been in conference with Scotland Yard chiefs.

Major Schoeffel's investigations were understood to have turned to Scotland, presumably toward interviewing Mrs. Taylor, mother of the Lindbergh nurse, Betty Gow, and investigating the records of other Lindbergh servants who came from England.

Although there was no definite indication that Major Schoeffel had started north, the Daily Sketch said he had left Scotland Yard with two members of the criminal investigations department. He was believed to have gone to Birmingham enroute to Glasgow.

Schoeffel booked at the Central hotel, Glasgow.

There was a reservation for "Mr. Hopewell, N. J."

Washington.—Two unique primaries Tuesday ushered in the active stage of the great American game of selecting a president.

In the largest state, New York, and in the most independent state, Wisconsin, both parties are selecting convention delegates. These are the first of the big April primaries which will pretty well decide how the presidential nominations are to go—Illinois, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts coming later in the month.

N. Y. Selects Delegates

New York—the great prize in both parties will select its district delegates Tuesday, 90 in each case. Later at state conventions, the Republicans will select seven additional delegates at large and the Democrats four.

New York does not provide for pledging its delegates but the Republicans will be all for renomination of President Hoover. The Democrats are doubtful. Managers of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt claim more than half of the delegates will be personally friendly. The chief of Tammany Hall, John F. Curry, declared here last week that he and his allies would control the delegation and would prevent it from pledging itself until the convention meets in Chicago.

In any case, it is expected to vote as a unit.

Governor Roosevelt and his New York rival, former Governor Smith, are expected to be named delegates at large later.

Both Parties Seek Wisconsin

In Wisconsin, both parties are having contests. The Democratic test again is between Roosevelt and Smith. The state chairman is backing a Roosevelt slate. The national committee is backing an unpledged slate which is understood to be pro-Smith.

Wisconsin has 26 votes in the Democratic convention.

The Republican fight is between the LaFollette and the administration factions. An unpledged but pro-Hoover slate is in the field against the LaFollette lineup which is pledged to Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska. Senator Blaine, Rep., Wis., is with this group. Wisconsin has 27 votes in the Republican convention and has almost invariably cast them for some insurgent leader as a protest gesture.

These two primaries in New York and Wisconsin illustrate by contrast the opposite poles of American politics. In the largest state, the boss of Tammany Hall announces in effect a week in advance that the delegates selected will be mere puppets and that he and his friends will decide where

REED DECLARES SALES LEVY WORTH FIGHTING FOR; TO PUSH CAMPAIGN

Senate to Consider General Sales Tax Which House Rebelled Against and Defeated if Democrats will Accept It

BARKLEY SLATED AS KEYNOTER OF DEM NAT'L CONVENTION

JOUETT SHOUSE FAVORED FOR PERMANENT CHAIRMAN IN INTEREST OF HARMONY

Chicago.—Recommendation of Senator A. W. Barkley of Kentucky as temporary chairman and keynoter of the Democratic national convention and Jouett Shouse, chairman of the national executive committee, as permanent chairman was seen Tuesday as a compromise in the interest of party harmony.

The recommendations, subject to ratification by the national committee and convention, were made by the sub-committee on arrangements after a day of wrangling in an ornate Congress hotel suite adjoining the famed "smoke-filled" room where Republican bosses picked President Harding as the 1920 nominee.

Senator Barkley was the choice of supporters of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York. Many eastern leaders, including Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City, Chairman John J. Raskob and others of the faction of former Gov. Alfred E. Smith wished Shouse as keynoter.

Both sides, however, expressed pleasure at the result.

Political observers who watched the meeting closely as an indication of the place of the Smith faction in the "stop Roosevelt" movement found the meeting indecisive. It was apparent the desire for party harmony was stronger than that to force an open break between the factions.

Senator Barkley was nominated by Gov. Harry Byrd of Virginia, a Roosevelt supporter, while Robert Jackson of New Hampshire, also a Roosevelt man, nominated Shouse.

Among the committee members in attendance were Joseph Wolff, Staples, Minnesota, and Mrs. Anna Struble of South Dakota.

Gold in Minot Region Assays $564.60 a Ton

Minot, N. D.—An assay Tuesday on a yard of earth coming from the new gold fields in the region of Denbigh yielded $564.60 worth of gold, a new high record for the area.

A rush to the fields started last fall but bad weather stopped operations. Half a dozen syndicates and prospectors are on the site waiting for favorable weather to begin operations. Most of the work done so far has been on the surface.

The previous high mark was set in 1925 when a ton of ore taken by J. J. Torrey, Minneapolis, assayed $454.10 of gold and $3.10 of silver.

CHAMPIONS PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE BILL SEE WIN DESPITE HOOVER STAND

Washington.—Champions of Philippine independence Tuesday, confidently predicted that congress would grant freedom to the islands despite President Hoover's opposition.

The 306 to 49 majority by which the House passed the Hare independence bill caused Senator Hawes, dem., Mo., a leading advocate of Philippine freedom, to predict that a similar measure would be passed by the senate with "not more than ten votes against it."

A two-thirds vote of both houses is sufficient for passage over a presidential veto.

It is considered certain that President Hoover will veto the independence bill when it comes to him. Secretary of State Stimson, in a letter to the House just before it acted, declared independence would result in chaos and anarchy in the islands. Secretary of War Hurley visited the islands last year and reported they were not yet economically ready for independence. After the House passed the Hare bill yesterday, Hurley called at the White House. Later he said:

"They're just giving the president something else to veto."

Chairman Bingham, or the senate committee on territories and insular affairs said he believed the senate would strike out the House bill for independence in eight years and substitute its own measure providing for independence in 16 years. This would throw the measure into conference and would probably result in a compromise figure.

The senate bill is sixth on the steering committee's calendar and ordinarily might not be reached until the end of the session. Hawes, however, claimed to have an agreement by which a vote was promised within three weeks.

By United Press

Washington.—Senator Reed, Rep. Pa., is going to lead a senate campaign for the general sales tax which the house rebelled against and defeated.

"The manufacturers sales tax is worth fighting for," Reed told the United Press Tuesday. "If the Democrats will accept in the senate the Crisp (sales tax) bill that was offered in the house, we Republicans ought to be able to give them enough votes to pass it. They could logically do that. The Crisp bill was a Democratic measure."

Dems Say Not a Chance

Acting Chairman Crisp of the ways and means committee was among the Democratic leaders who sponsored the sales tax in the house. The rank and file of the house Democrats turned against the leaders on this issue and forced substitution of a program of special excise and sales levies.

The United Press approached an influential Democratic member of the senate finance committee with a question on Reed's proposition.

"Not a chance," the Democrat replied. "We have trouble enough."

But Reed is determined. His office is receiving scores of protests against the bill as it passed the house.

"The manufacturers' tax is not a poor man's tax," Reed said. "With the exemption of food, clothing, rent and tobacco, it would not cost the average man more than $5 or $6 a year."

"Of course the progressives will wave the 'poor man's tax' like a red flag. But the fact is that the house bill is a sales tax with inordinate levies on selected industries."

Declares It Sound Means

"It is my feeling that the soundest means of raising federal revenue is the manufacturers' tax and we ought to adopt that means. It would have the advantage of eliminating other undesirable taxes now contained in the revenue bill, the postal rate increase, for instance."

Democratic leaders appear to be against restoring the war-time surtaxes on incomes, but a back bench rebellion seems to be in the making under the leadership of the able Walsh, Dem., Mont. Republican progressives also want to make the rich pay more, and Senator Couzens, Rep., Mich.—richest member of congress—is aligned with them on this score.

Hearings on the tax bill begin before the senate finance committee Wednesday. Earmark leaders promise that a fortnight will suffice for the hearings. Others predict lengthy hearings, protracted debates on the floor and a session of congress extending until September.

"The house required four months for this bill," Reed commented. "How can we pass it in two?"

Duluth, Minn.—An official investigation of an airplane crash Monday in which four Ely businessmen were killed while en route to the National Aircraft show at Detroit, Tuesday placed the blame for the crash on a blinding snow storm.

Those killed in the accident were Pilot Cheron Fuller, H. E. Kurvick, G. J. Sonero and W. Sonero, all of Ely.

FACTS STRESSED IN NEED CONSERVATION NATURAL RESOURCES

Conservation of the forest and other natural resources was the subject of an illustrated lecture given by Alfred L. Nelson of the Minnesota state forest service to the students of the Washington high school Tuesday morning. Nelson also spoke for an open meeting sponsored by the Carl Sidney Hanson Post No. 256, American Legion Monday evening.

"We have a better understanding and greater appreciation of the values and uses of our natural resources than we had a few years ago, or our pioneer forefathers had," said Nelson. "The modern 1931 conception of forests takes into consideration four major uses or benefits, while formerly we thought forests produced only wood. Now we know that forests are the home of game, that a forest cover helps to conserve water, and that forests provide us with recreation."

His outstanding statements were:

There are 20,000,000 acres in the forest protective area.

The citizens of Minnesota pay more than $30,000,000 in freight and excess lumber costs to import the lumber from other states.

There are 6 million to 6 million acres barren, non-producing land which once grew timber and would again.

More forests are destroyed by fire than are cut.

Barren, idle land pays no taxes; the productive land must pay greater amounts.

The depletion of the game and fish supply is not so much due to the number of hunters and fishermen take as it is to the destruction of the natural habitat which game must have to live.

"Wood is the cash crop of the forests," the speaker said, "not only producing wood for the building of houses and the thousands of necessities, but also making work for men in the woods and mills, paying taxes and making communities prosperous. We will always need wood, but we must plant, protect and use the forests properly."

"Game finds a home in the forests. The game supply is diminishing because the food, protection and home is destroyed. Fish hatcheries can produce millions of fish fry, but if the streams and lakes are unfit for them to live in, we cannot expect to increase the fishing. Game farms will raise birds to plant, but if the proper environment has been destroyed, we could better keep them on the game farm."

"Camping, touring, fishing and hunting are the recreational uses of the forests. Green, growing forests attract millions of people every summer. It is an additional use of the forests, one which does not impair it for producing timber, raising game or conserving water, and it is worth nearly $80,000,000 to the state."

"But before we can have these products or uses," the speaker said in conclusion, "we must protect from fire and other damage; we must replace the forests which have gone, and we must learn to use them wisely."

Nelson illustrated the lecture with a set of Minnesota scenes, beautifully colored. The attendance at the high school was 800 and at the Legion meeting about 225.

Tot, 3, Saved from Mine

"Daddy—Mama!" were the first words three-year-old Gerald Collins said when workmen rescued the child from his 12-hour imprisonment into a narrow drill hole at a zinc mine near Picher, Okla., into which he had fallen. He is shown here in a Miami, Okla., hospital, where he is recovering from a threatened attack of pneumonia as a result of exposure. His mother, eyes swollen from weeping during the ordeal is beside him.

Here is the scene that was enacted as miners toiled to rescue Gerald Collins, 3, from the narrow drill hole into which he fell and in which he was lodged, 17 feet below the ground. In the center of the picture is the shaft sunk by rescuers parallel to the drill hole, which is beneath the air pump at the right.

Brainerd Choral Club Honored by Invitation to Appear Before National P. T. A. Convention

Additional honors Tuesday were heaped upon Brainerd's Choral club by virtue of national recognition through invitation to appear before the national parent-teachers association convention in Minneapolis in May. The musical organization of singers has accepted the invitation and will be heard in several numbers. Invitation to appear on the program before the national convention was received from national officials in charge of the convention program. It was acted upon Monday night at a regular rehearsal of the club.

Since 1926 the Brainerd Choral club has been building a reputation known throughout the state. It has appeared before numerous gatherings and the latest invitation to participate on the program at the national convention bespeaks the great respect and favor in which the Brainerd Choral club is held throughout this section.

TIRE INDUSTRY ADVANCES COMFORT, SAFETY; RIVERSIDES ENTER 20TH YEAR

In an interview today E. R. Prall, manager of Montgomery Ward tire department, announced that 1932 is the 20th Anniversary of Riverside tires and told of the remarkable improvements that have been made in tire quality since the first Riverside was sold in 1912.

"No 1912 tire was anything to brag about," said Mr. Prall. "The motorist who went for a Sunday afternoon ride about town without tire trouble was fortunate indeed. The 30x3½ Riverside sold for $18.00 (other makes were priced as high as $35.00) and 3,600 miles was about the maximum life of any tire."

"But that was twenty years ago. Today one rarely knows what tire trouble is. We have learned a great deal about making tires since 1912, and at the same time effected economies in manufacturing that are almost unbelievable. You don't realize what has been accomplished until you compare the cost per thousand miles. Take for example the 30x3½, one of the few sizes used in 1912 that is still in use today. The 1912 Riverside cost the car owner about $6.00 per thousand miles—the 1932 Riverside will cost about $1.8 per thousand miles, a reduction of 97 per cent. And that is not all; the 1932 tire is practically trouble-proof."

Continuing, Mr. Prall said, "1932 is a year of exceptional tire values as well as automobile values. We knew that most people prefer the extra safety—extra wear and freedom from trouble that is obtainable only in a six-ply Heavy Duty tire. We further knew that the former price of such tires placed them out of the reach of many people. So we developed a new six-ply Heavy Duty Riverside and priced it at the usual price of a four-ply tire. The immediate acceptance of this new Riverside is almost overwhelming. It meets the need for safety and extra wear at the lowest price ever placed on a full six-ply tire."

New 9 Inch Tire—Only 10 Pounds of Air

Mr. Prall was asked about the new 9 inch cross section Riverside Air Cushion that operates with only ten pounds of air. He said, "That is the tire of tomorrow for the car of today. We predict that within two or three years most automobiles will be originally equipped with tires of this type. It has three definite advantages over all other tires: (1) It takes the bumps out of the roads, (2) It can be driven through sand, mud, or snow

PLAN LINKING CITY 60TH ANNIVERSARY AND BI-CENTENNIAL

GENERAL COMMITTEE FORMULATES PLANS AT WEDNESDAY NIGHT MEETING HERE

Members of the Brainerd Washington Bi-Centennial Observance committee will meet in general session Wednesday night in the city council rooms, city hall, formulating plans for the greatest single day program in years.

Tuesday night members of the sub-committee will gather, thrashing out several details.

Rev. Edgar A. Valiant, chairman of the general committee, will have a lengthy report to offer on progress made. Monday night he appeared before the city council and board of education asking the cooperation of each group.

The tentative program includes speeches by civic leaders, tree planting ceremonies in Gregory park, dedication of tablet in Gregory park commemorating the Washington Bi-Centennial, music, and a street parade of civic and industrial floats. The date may be set Wednesday night.

"It is the committee's desire to make the observance not only city-wide but county-wide. We want this to be an outstanding event for Brainerd. Since this year is the occasion of the 60th anniversary of Brainerd it would be fitting also to celebrate this event simultaneously," Rev. Valiant said.

V. E. Quansstrom, president of the city council, was instructed to name two aldermen as representatives on the general committee.

The Brainerd Board of Education promised the use of the Washington high school auditorium and gymnasium.

ALDERMEN FROWN ON REGISTRATION FOR VOTERS IN ADVANCE

QUESTION RAISED IF CITY WILL BE REQUIRED TO REGISTER
BEFORE ELECTION

The question of registration of voters 15 days before an election, now that Brainerd is a city of the third class, over 10,000 population, was one that gave city aldermen concern Monday night.

No alderman could express himself as an authority on the question but all were generally in favor of reading a registration if it was possible to do so.

Such a registration, Mrs. E. T. Fleener, city clerk, explained, would cost the city not less than $600 and such cost would be a burden on the city finances, she said.

Mrs. Fleener was of the opinion that in any event the election could not be invalidated. No action was taken by the city council.

The primary election will take place this year on June 20.

TRAFFIC TAGS AND BANK HOLDUPS—

One of the odd angles of the recent $200,000 Minneapolis bank holdup illustrates perfectly the tangled problem which this complicated age has tossed in the laps of the police.

Armed heavily enough to resemble a World War trench raiding squad, the bandits boldly marched into a bank in a busy section of the city, in broad daylight, held up the 24 people who were in the bank and got away with the loot unmolested.

Meanwhile, less than a block away, two policemen who might have done something to stop them were peacefully putting traffic tickets on improperly parked automobiles, in blissful ignorance of the holdup.

This, of course, does not mean that the policemen were asleep. They were doing precisely what they had been paid to do. Guardians of law and order, they were devoting themselves to the dreary, never-ending job of seeing to it that a big city's traffic didn't tie itself into hard knots.

As a result, the bandits who went out to commit an insolently bold robbery got away unmolested.

That is the sort of thing the police in every city are up against nowadays.

A police department exists primarily to protect the lives and property of the citizens. Keeping down crime is its first job. If it fails in that, it fails to justify its existence.

But we have permitted our city civilization to grow so complicated that the police often find the war on crime a relatively minor part of their schedule.

They have traffic to superintend—a man's-sized job in itself. They have a host of minor city ordinances to enforce. They have a host of minor city ordinances to enforce. They must also keep down bootlegging, check up on gamblers, see to it that street peddlers have licenses, cast an occasional eye at theatrical performances, look for missing persons, and so on. They are too busy with their incidental jobs to give the war on crime the attention that it must have.

A WISE C. OF C. MOVE—

Appointment of a special committee to work separately from the tourist committee in promoting the sale of lake property and encouraging subsequent development by improvement with cottages is a wise move on the part of the chamber of commerce. Its potential scope is limitless and the possibilities of the plan are far-reaching as far as development of the Brainerd lake region is concerned.

No doubt it will bring about the visitation of more tourists to this community. It will increase the value of real estate and its general effect will encourage confidence and respect of this section as a summer paradise.

Exact functions of the special committee have not been outlined. But, irrespective of the minute details connected the move should do much to popularize and develop this section.

COUNTY APPROPRIATIONS—

Appropriations voted by the Crow Wing county board of commissioners for exploitation of lakes and farms will be money well spent. The board appropriated $2,900 to various organizations for this work and the benefits, while not particularly apparent at the present, will have its effect upon this community in the way of future business.

Appropriations in detail included $750 to the Brainerd chamber of commerce; $250 to the Greater Minnesota-10,000 Lakes association; $800 to the Cuyuna fair and $100 to the Crow Wing Garden and Flower society.

Each of these organizations have a well defined program and these funds will find a ready outlet in worthwhile promotion and exploitation of the natural resources of the community.

WHY THIS BUSINESS IS GOOD—

The magazine Variety reports that fortune tellers, crystal gazers and other psychic wonder-workers are finding business better during the depression than ever before. This is especially true in the theater; whereas in ordinary times there are seldom more than 25 active fortune tellers on the stage in the United States, there are now more than 100—and they are drawing crowds, too.

This, of course, isn't as puzzling as it seems at first glance. When times are good, the ordinary citizen is content to let tomorrow take care of itself. It is when times are bad that he wants to look into the future. He wants to know if he is going to lose his job, or if he is going to get a new one, or if anyone is going to leave him any money; and no matter how hard up he is, he can usually dig up half a dollar or so for the man who professes to be able to tell him.

THE BEST STUDENTS—

A survey recently made at Temple University discloses that students from small towns usually carry off the scholastic honors at colleges and universities, and that students who are working their way through usually rank higher in their studies than students whose expenses are being paid by their parents.

These findings are interesting, but not especially surprising. The youngsters from the small town usually has a better chance to learn how to study while in high school, for the simple reason that there are fewer distractions. And the youngster who wants an education badly enough to wait on table or tend furnaces in order to get it can ordinarily be depended on to do some good, honest work in the classroom and study hall.

Our City Charter

(B)
In revising a charter the first essential is to correct those parts of the present charter which no longer fit the conditions of our city or hamper the administration of things. The new charter then becomes a corrective measure. Perhaps that is all that is needed. It might be all that should be offered to the voters. On the other hand, we are today living in a period when all people are doing on tax reduction, and it would be the natural impulse for a member of a charter commission to endeavor, while he is rewriting a charter, to cut down the levies the City Council might authorize for its various functions, hoping that thereby the tax burden on the citizens would be made lighter. That is commendable, and that impulse should be fostered. But before taking the step it should be apparent at once that reductions more often than not cause irreparable harm unless proper coordination is effected all along the line. Just a slash here or there is not a constructive method.

Often substantial gains are made not by reducing specific levies but through changes in administrative bodies. We are not conscious just now of having any specific recommendation on that point but it occurs to us that we would profit from starting discussions on questions such as the following. We have at present a mayor and ten aldermen, two being elected from each of five wards. Would it appeal to us to have six wards and only one alderman from each ward. There is always better coordination and application of effort in a small rather than a large body, with consequent better results. Might we not fare better with a Commission Form of government, with three full-time elected officials devoting all their attention to city affairs. Perhaps we might fare better if we used the 'City Manager' Plan of government, with a Council of six and an experienced engineer hired to act as the manager. We are not conscious of our city finances or our public improvements having been under-managed under the present order of things; but a better form of management, such as all large business enterprises have adopted long ago, surely impresses any thinking person as being productive of greater benefits to a community. Such benefits can arise in a multitude of ways and be in effect equivalent to tax reduction now

THE OPEN FORUM

To the Editor of the Daily Dispatch:

Some time ago I read of a college professor in Michigan, who had found the cause for our hard times. It was the changing fashion of women's wear that was to blame for the depression. Now I read in the Daily Dispatch for March 31 that a college professor, Perkins, of Columbia university, has written a book in which he states that a man, after he is 50 years old, becomes stupid and unfit for mental activities—that the best thing for him to do is to go into a rocket and be sent off to the moon.

I have often said that college professors can not be taken seriously, but now I must admit, that I have been greatly mistaken. This Professor Perkins has proven by words and deeds, that his statements are true. The two professors mentioned are both past 50.

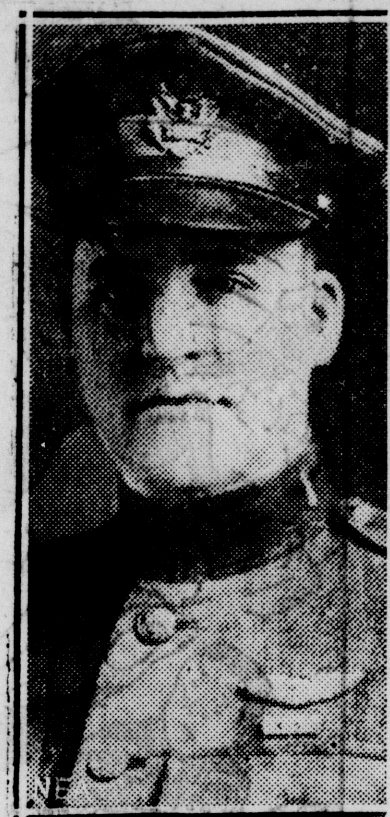

This does not mean, however, that old men past 50 are foggy, though it may be true of college professors, as a rule. I am quite sure the professor is right in his statement about the ten classic blunders of the world, only he should have put No. 1 and No. 2 together in one. If human stupidity had not blundered this world into existence, the Irish could not have raised any potatoes.

And now that we are talking about potatoes, I wonder if the crop in Ireland would decrease any if all men past 50 were sent to the moon. It might help England more. They say it is too foggy over there now for the Irish potatoes. They are liable to rot in the ground. That would not be so much the case in the United States. We raise a lot of prunes here, and prunes they say, make better moonshine than the Irish potatoes.

And by the way, that brings me to what I intended to say. The professor does not have to send us old fellows to the moon in order to get this blundering world straightened out. We are too old to run the world, we can make the moonshine right here.
J. P. SANKEN

The dime-a-dance girl

BY JOAN CLAUION

BEGIN HERE TODAY
ELLEN ROSSITER, beautiful 20-year-old, loves LARRY HARROWGATE, young artist. When he becomes engaged to another girl Ellen agrees to marry STEVEN BARCLAY, 27 years old and wealthy. Her impoverished family is indebted to Barclay. Barclay has been married before. Scandal divorced him from LEO GRAYSON, dancer. To avoid publicity Ellen and Barclay are secretly married. They drive to his Long Island home, deserted except for FERDUS, the butler. There Barclay suffers a heart attack. LEO'S STORIES, Barclay's lawyers, arrive with doctors and nurses. Barclay dies at dawn. Symes tells Ellen her marriage is not legal because papers proving Barclay's divorce have been stolen. Ellen yields all claims on Barclay's fortune to avoid scandal. Then she learns Larry Harrowgate is Barclay's nephew. Heartbroken, she returns home. Ellen distrusts FERDUS. She returns to work as a hostess at Drenthman's, a dance hall. Larry comes there, tells her he loves her. He asks, "You weren't married, were you?"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLIII

ELLEN'S heart was beating tumultuously. Larry waited for his answer. Suddenly the girl said what she had not meant to say.

"No—I—I—I didn't get married."

Over and over she had told her sick and guilty soul it would be so easy to explain everything. Now it was too late. Ellen had never seen Larry more deeply moved, more desperately serious.

"You couldn't! You couldn't marry anyone else. Tell me you couldn't because you belong to me!"

"That's an odd thing for you to say," she faltered.

"I know it is," he agreed with a short laugh.

She sat perfectly still, her blue eyes on his and one of her hands clasped in Larry's. He leaned nearer.

"You mean I hadn't any right to say that?"

"I guess that's what I mean," she said, a little uncertainly. "You see you didn't say a word."

"It didn't occur to me," he said, faintly scowling. "It's damned hard for me to be honest now. It's hard for me to remember how smug and complacent I was during those days before I got that last note of yours. It's easy enough to remember how I've felt since—half crazy from thinking I'd lost you."

"Do you know why I came here tonight?" he demanded.

"No, I don't know."

HE stopped and then went on again. "You'd understand better if you knew Liz Bowes. She slips in and out of two or three engagements every season. There was a time when I thought I cared for her enough to be engaged, even to think of marrying her. Her family was delighted and mother was too. But then Liz came home from Europe. I had your last note and knew I'd lost everything, everything in the world, Ellen."

"I went out to your house that night, Ellen. Did you know that? Your mother told me you never wanted to see me again."

"Mother did what she thought was best," Ellen said slowly.

"You hadn't any idea what I went through that night," Larry said passionately.

She shook her head in correction. "I think I do know."

"How do you know? Tell me how?" he demanded hungrily.

But she could only look at him, her lips unsteady, her eyes bright with tears and her hands pressed in his.

"Can you understand, Ellen, how a man might subconsciously think a girl would wait when there wasn't any reason for her to wait except that she loved him? Can you imagine how a man might be so stupid and conceited and selfish? If you'll only forgive me you'll never be sorry."

Her heart overflowed with love and forgiveness and warm pain.

"Why, Larry, sweetheart, don't talk that way," she said gently. "I won't let you say such things about yourself. Of course I forgive you. I could forgive you anything."

He seized her hand and pressed it to his lips. "Ah, you're sweet, sweet, sweet," he muttered.

"Does this mean we're engaged?" she asked faintly.

"You bet it does," he laughed.

"That day you wrote the note to me at the store—you didn't feel this way then?" Ellen questioned.

"No, I didn't," Larry confessed, groping for the words. "I wanted mother to meet you because I liked you. I liked you a lot from the first, Ellen, but I didn't realize I loved you, that you were my whole life. And then mother—"

"Didn't want to meet me," Ellen completed the sentence.

He went on, neither denying or affirming her statement. "I was content that things should drift along with us until you showed me they just wouldn't drift."

"But you were engaged," she pointed out, wondering that the fact that had once made all her days so wretched seemed now of no importance.

"True again. But that didn't seem important to me. I did think of telling you, thought of it several times, but I never seemed to find just the right occasion. You know how that is, don't you?"

"True again. But that didn't seem important to me. I did think of telling you, thought of it several times, but I never seemed to find just the right occasion. You know how that is, don't you?"

"You were engaged," she pointed out, wondering that the fact that had once made all her days so wretched seemed now of no importance.

"True again. But that didn't seem important to me. I did think of telling you, thought of it several times, but I never seemed to find just the right occasion. You know how that is, don't you?"

"You were engaged," she pointed out, wondering that the fact that had once made all her days so wretched seemed now of no importance.

"True again. But that didn't seem important to me. I did think of telling you, thought of it several times, but I never seemed to find just the right occasion. You know how that is, don't you?"

SHE was in ecstasy on the trip down the avenue. To have Larry here, to know that he was proud of her and that he loved her was incredible. The day itself was incredible. The air was cool and sweet, the sky a bright, electric blue and the sun so brilliant that all the bushes seemed freshly painted. The shop windows had never displayed merchandise more enticing, more tempting, more desirable. Ellen wanted to dance and sing. Instead she sedately matched her pace to his and felt the petals of the shaggy mum against her cheek with every step.

They reached Thirty-fourth street and a small, select jewelry shop, a shop so aristocratic that for decades it had carried no sign to guide the shopper. As she walked down a long, silken rug into an atmosphere of almost cathedral-like austerity, Ellen tried to look casual and dignified but did not succeed. She looked exactly what she was—a rapturous, half embarrassed young girl with flushed cheeks and brilliant eyes.

Larry was as absorbed in the purchase as she was. The two bent their elbows on the shining counter and pondered over dozens of rings while the watching clerk suppressed amused smiles. The engagement ring was an easy choice, a clear blue diamond guarded by emeralds. Both exclaimed at once over it. Larry said they did not need a box. Ellen trembled, blushed, agreed. Glory flashed on her finger and glory flashed in her heart.

Selecting the wedding ring was more difficult. The clerk brought out a second tray and then a third. All the rings were dignified and simple, so similar that to any except-lovers there would seem to be no choice.

"Here it is!" Larry cried out suddenly.

He held up a slim platinum circlet set with diamonds. It might have been a twin of the ring at home that was locked in Ellen's dressing table. Her face paled with the memory.

"Don't you like it?" Larry asked, surprised. "Try it on."

Ellen's hands were clasped behind her back.

"Why I—don't you think it would be better to have the wedding ring more simple?" she appealed, confused and horribly frightened.

"The young lady is right," broke in the clerk.

Ellen sent him a misty, grateful smile. After a moment of disappointment Larry agreed that perhaps they should choose something plainer. The "something plainer" was not platinum at all but white gold carved with minute orange blossoms. They left the ring to be engraved.

A movement to beautify the homes of Crow Wing county will be inaugurated at a meeting of town and country people to be held at Brainerd in connection with a luncheon at the Presbyterian church basement on Monday, April 18. A splendid program has been arranged.

The object of the meeting will be to improve the appearances of farm and city homes through beautifying of lawns, painting, cleanup, and arrangement of yards, etc. Arrangements will also be made for a flower exchange meeting to be held on April 29, which has become an annual event.

Committee in charge of these arrangements also plans a tour of this county to see the work that had been done last year in beautifying farm homes. This will be a day's tour throughout Crow Wing county, and will consist of visiting some of the improved farm homes together with a picnic dinner at one of the lakes.

Persons wishing to participate in this luncheon and campaign are requested to leave their names with County Agent E. G. Roth, so that accommodations can be made for the luncheon.

"Love Thief"

That's Charge Against Fair Claire

"Just silly," Claire Windsor, film actress, in top picture, termed the suit of Mrs. Marian Y. Read, pictured below, for $100,000 for alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, Alfred C. Read, Jr., former University of California athlete. "I never lured any man away from his wife," said the fair Claire. Mrs. Read, an Oakland, Calif., society woman and mother of two children, has filed suit for divorce against Read.

NEW BRIDGE LIGHTS SIMILAR IN STYLE TO MUNICIPAL LAMPS

MINNESOTA HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT CONSENTS TO PERMIT USE ORNAMENTAL LIGHTS

The new bridge over the Mississippi river front street, when completed will be equipped with lighting similar to the ornamental lamps on the streets of Brainerd. The city council was informed by letter Monday night. The Minnesota Highway Department will divert from its custom of statewide lighting of bridges in deference to Brainerd's desire to have the lights on the bridge conform with street lighting. Carl aZpffe, Sr., president of the Water and Light board explained in the letter.

The city will be required to maintain and operate the lighting. The matter of determining an agreement was referred to city attorney, W. J. Swanson.

APPEAL SERVED IN NUISANCE VERDICT

Attorney D. H. Fullerton has served notice of appeal to district court in the decision of Judge J. H. Warner, in municipal court holding George Wicks guilty of maintaining of nuisance in the finding of a gallon of alcohol in the client's apartment.

Fullerton makes appeal to definitely establish the full meaning of the charge of maintaining a nuisance relative to possession of liquor, contending that evidence of sale is required to prove the charge. He asserts the case is a test case.

No definite date for the hearing before a district court judge has been set.

"VARIETY IS THE SPICE OF LIFE"

as somebody of importance once remarked. Certainly you'll find diversification enough at Brainerd's Office Supply Company at 208 So. 7th St. They have every conceivable thing in the way of stationery supplies to make your office run smoothly. Then you can get anything in the Dennison line of crepe papers and novelties—or book with instructions for making paper things—Yes, and L. C. Smith, Corona and Underwood typewriters. Yes Sir! Just take your office supply problems to the Brainerd Office Supply company at 208 So. Seventh Street and they'll help you straighten thing out with the proper stationery supplies.

"TWAS ON APRIL 8, 1513, THAT Ponce de Leon landed in Florida—in search of the fountain of youth—now, in April, 1932, we moderns are still searching for the fountain of youth and although the H. P. Dunn Drug Store folks aren't "face lifters" or magicians, they can suggest cosmetics that are veritable fountains of youth. Go in and talk over your beauty hints with them—They can give suggestions that are mighty worth while. And you'll find a complete line of high grade products—ask about all of them!

"COMING EVENTS CAST their shadows before" as somebody said one time, and a great big shadow is beginning to show itself out in the stockroom of the Johnson Pharmacy—new goods beginning to arrive from the Rexall people and they're beginning to get the stage all set for one of these Rexall One-Cent Sales. —In fact, I'm told the curtain goes up for the first performance on April 14 and will be continuous through-out April 15th and 16th, inclusive. But then, anyone who has ever attended a Rexall One-Cent Sale knows just how much the little insignificant penny will buy on that date. This is a chance for you and your friends to participate in a real bargain carnival. Yes, at Johnson's Pharmacy.

"A DREAM REALIZED!" WAS what a young lady told me who was making preparations for a longed for vacation. "All my life I've wanted to go west and now I'm going." All of which is to say that if you "set your goal" and save a stipulated amount regularly your dreams will come true. The First National bank is a bank for small depositors as well as large. They have been serving people in this community for over a half century and have rendered real and conscientious service to all depositors. Wouldn't it be fine to start that vacation fund now?

ASK JOHNNY WHICH IS THE most important room in the house—No doubt about it! The dining room! Then which room deserves the best furniture? Dining room again. "Ah-h-h-h!" that's what we said when we saw the dining room suites at Patek Furniture Store. Most people notice dining room furniture. You do, yourself, don't you? If you're not entirely satisfied with your present dining room equipment drop in and see these beautiful dining room suites that Patek Furniture Store has on display—they're beauties!

"A PICTURE IS A POEM without words." Do you remember whose words those are? I don't, but I couldn't refrain from repeating the definition as I viewed those Wallace Nutting pictures at Whitney's. They truly are poems—and lovely ones, too. The subjects seem to have such a fresh and springlike air about them. And—there's one thing about a Wallace Nutting picture—it's always good taste. Mr. D. E. Whitney, whose store is at 720 Front street, has a most interesting store—I think he has a remarkable collection of pictures, etchings and paintings. Mr. Whitney will be only too glad to help you with the selection of a picture.

A SALESMAN ACQUAINTANCE told me recently that one of the first things he discovered when Brainerd was included in his route was that the Van Cafe "put up a real meal." Said he, "If it's real food you're looking for—Why you can't beat the meals at Van's Cafe." And its a friendly place to eat, too, I might add. Perhaps that's another reason for their popularity on Sundays! If you're planning a party you may take your guests to Van's Cafe—They have a private dining room that is reserved especially for private affairs.

CITRUS FRUITS ARE MY IDEA of health fruits—of course, my information has come from medical friends, nevertheless, I'm convinced that they are a great aid to health. Many dentists now prescribe orange and lemon juice in diets to correct and prevent certain diseases of the teeth—and you must admit that it's a pleasant form of medicine. In addition to lemonade, you may be interested in the following uses for lemons. Lemon juice for salad dressing in place of vinegar is a vast improvement in flavor—in fact this is true of most any recipe that calls for vinegar. Serve them lavishly with fish, oysters, and meats—they are a splendid relish and improve the flavor, while their bright lemon color is a most attractive garnish. Include lemons and oranges and grapefruit on your list when you're shopping at the Laurel Fruit Company.

THE FELLOW WHO DREAMED he was awake and when he woke up he was asleep has nothing on the Brainerd man who is going to waken some morning to discover that spring has come and he hasn't even looked at the new "Blackmere" suits for spring at Peterson's Clothing Company. It's easy enough to assemble your "outfit" and you can do it with much confidence at Peterson Clothing Company's store for they carry Stetson hats—always known for their quality—Geo. P. Ide Shirts—they're smartness personified—Phoenix hosiery and Cheney ties—made of silk that ties well and wears well, and they're perfectly gorgeous ones, too—The one and only will think you're just perfect—and you will be, too—perfectly dressed.

ORDERING GROCERIES BY telephone has its advantages, but there are many new things in the market now, and you won't want to miss an opportunity to place something different before the family at mealtime—That's why it's such a good idea to visit the A. & P. They carry all the nationally advertised brands of canned goods, besides their own—and if you are a thrifty shopper you'll save money by buying your canned goods at the A. & P. and carrying them home yourself.

IT'S SAFE TO SAY THAT A woman can scarcely plan an ensemble these days and not find a bag to match it—and the well-groomed lady will choose accessories that will exactly fit her costume. Hand bags are all hues this season—member when black and brown were the only accepted colors? Most of them have tricky "catches" but it's easy to learn the "combination." This is truly a blouse season, too. Those two-piece effects in hats have made it possible to have a dressy suit or a strictly tailored one—Just by changing the blouse. The George F. Murphy Dry Goods Company have some lovely purses and their neckwear department will give you all sorts of ideas for "dolling-up" a last year's dress.

PHYSICIANS KNOW MILK IS a healthful food. They recommend it for healthy people as well as sick—young as well as old. You'll find the milk from the Russell Dairy to be of unusual quality. It is handled with the most modern equipment, and as we heard a visitor say there one day, "I've never seen a dairy kept any cleaner." The Russell Dairy certainly has all the facilities for maintaining a rigid sanitary standard. Just phone your milk needs to the Russell Dairy. The number is 190. They'll be glad to serve you.

OF COURSE, YOU APPRECIATE all the stubbed toes Mother has tied up for you—and you appreciate all the other little things she's done for you. Of course, you do! But—have you ever stopped to tell her that you do? Maybe she'd appreciate just a word or an expression from you and that's why I want to tell you about Sedlock's Jewelry Store—rather about the pieces of powder and silverware—graceful designs—Any piece would make your mother happy and would also be a practical gift—although I don't approve of "practical" gifts for Mother's Day—Well, I just know she'd love something new in powder or silverware for her home—and the Sedlock Jewelry Store is THE place to look for it—They have quality merchandise at prices that have been the lowest in years.

AND NOW I WANT TO TALK very confidentially and earnestly to the men of the Brainerd community. Will the ladies please retire for a moment? Thank you! Now, gentlemen, I know for a fact that there are many housewives in this territory—particularly in the rural districts—who have been postponing their hopes and ambitions for better homes until expensive farm machinery was paid for. Don't you think your wives are now entitled to some of those modern comforts? Until recently many thought it wasn't possible, but it is! A few alterations can bring you all the modern conveniences and at very nominal cost. Let me suggest, gentlemen, that you drop around and see Mr. Geist at the Hayes-Lucas Lumber Yard. He can tell you how you can remodel your home and how little the alterations will cost.

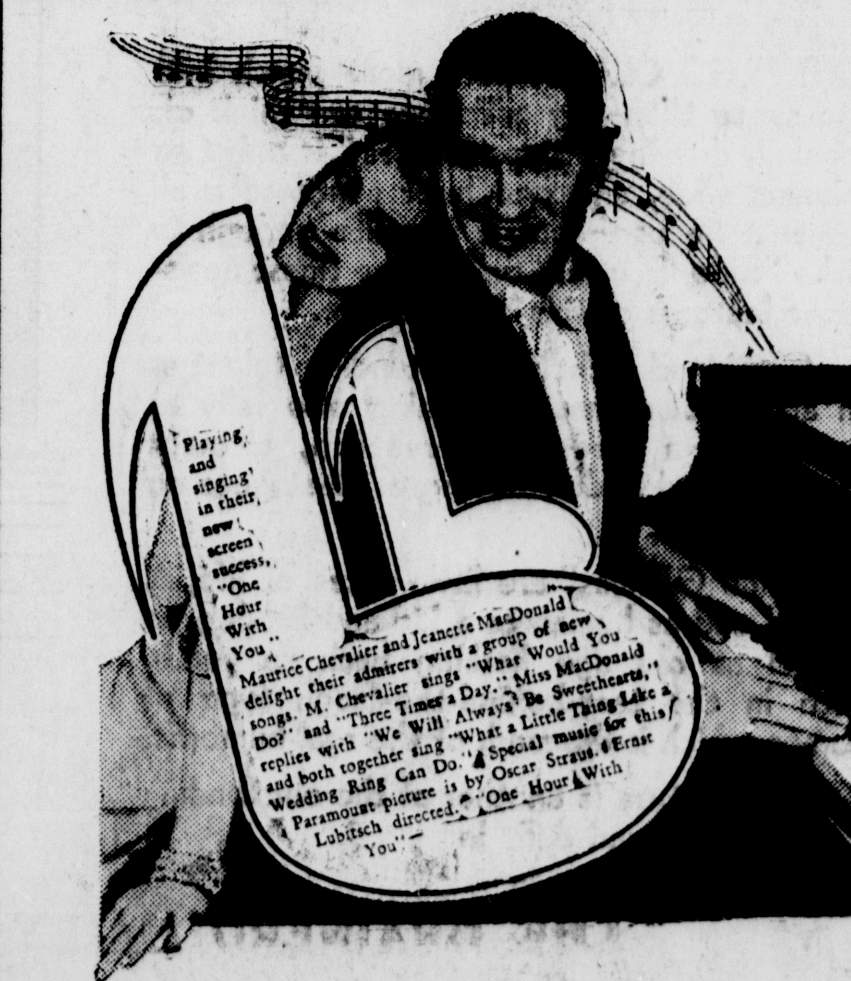

Betty Lou GOES SHOPPING

Brainerd merchants have tuned in with Spring. A trip through the stores is a genuine delight. New ideas, new colors, new merchandise—all here for your inspection. Come with me and see!

1931 SECOND DIVISION A. L. CLUBS SLATED FOR SAME FLIGHT

LITTLE PROSPECT OF ANY OF FOUR TO CLIMB IN SEASON

New York.—The St. Louis Browns, Boston Red Sox, Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox were the lower flight American League clubs last year, and none appears to have added enough strength to quit the second division.

There hasn't been a miracle club since 1914 when Boston's Braves climbed from last place on July 4 to win the National League pennant, and went on to beat the Philadelphia Athletics by straight games in the world series.

Of the four clubs the most likely for "miracle club" prospects is that of the Boston Red Sox, last year's sixth place club which ended the season one percentage point behind the St. Louis Browns.

The climb, even to sixth place, had some significance, for Boston had spent six years in the cellar.

The Sox already have had one hard break in the fatal fish-fry stabbing of Big Ed Morris, pitcher. Morris' star had, however, dimmed a bit in recent years, and his loss may not be felt keenly.

Despite their recent low estate the Boston Sox almost always have been noted for pitching. Their staff this season will be led by Dany MacPadden, Wilcy Moore and Jack Russell. Newcomers to the staff include Pete Donahue, a right-hander, drafted from Kansas City, and Bob Weiland, bought from the Chicago White Sox. Donahue has been in the big time before.

Detroit's Tigers just missed the cellar last year. They may win a few more games this season but they are still a long way from being a first division club. Their climb will depend upon the playing ability of Charley Gehringer, star second baseman. He was of scant use last season because of an injured arm.

The Tiger's pitching staff may be regarded as improved. Whit Wyatt has been brought back from Beaumont in the Texas League. Izzy Goldstein also has been brought up from Beaumont. Manager Bucky Harris also will rely to an extent upon Mark Koenig, former Yankee shortstop, who, at this late date, has taken up pitching.

Chicago's White Sox promise good pitching and weak hitting. Ted Lyons and Al Thomas lead the pitching procession, along with Pat Carraway, Vic Frasier, and that veteran spitballer, Urban Fieber.

The Chicago infield of Blue, Hayes, Cissell and Selph is grand on offense but somewhat weak at bat. The outfield will be new. Manager Lew Fonseca who used to be an infielder, will continue his experiment of playing left field, with Mel Simons and Bruce Campbell in the other fields.

Either a lot or a little might be said of the St. Louis Browns. They have the handicap of playing in the same city as the champions. They have no new strength to speak of. There is a young team which club officials believe needs seasoning. The Browns are the only major club which has never won a pennant.

MANDERS REPORTS FOR GRID PRACTICE

Minneapolis.—Forced to remain indoors by a snow storm the University of Minnesota spring football squad was strengthened Tuesday by the return of Jack Manders, regular full-back, and Brad Robinson, star end. Coach Bernie Bierman placed Manders and Robinson on the so-called first eleven and their addition to the squad added a fire and dash missing from previous workouts. Working with the spring recruits also was My Uhl, halfback and passing star of last year's team.

Campus Romance

It started the way all campus romances start, and now this young couple is Mr. and Mrs. Gerald (Jerry) Dalrymple. Jerry is the Tulane All-American end, captain of the 1931 Green Wave eleven that played in the New Year's Day Rose Bowl engagement against Southern California. Mrs. Jerry is the former Dorothy Mariba Bonnet of New Orleans, daughter of a prominent southern lawyer and a leader in the younger social set in the Crescent City. She was a co-ed at Newcomb College, part of Tulane University.

At the beginning of 1931 there were 119,402 applications in the U. S. Patent Office waiting action.

Oil extracted from cherry pits is now becoming commercially valuable.

The Egyptian goose, sometimes observed at an altitude of 35,000 feet, is said to be the highest flier of the bird family.

TICKET SALE FOR WALKER-LEVINSKY SKIRMISH BRISK

Chicago.—Within an hour and a half after they were placed on sale, all of the $1.10 tickets for the King Levinsky-Mickey Walker heavyweight bout at the Chicago stadium April 29 were sold. Billy Burke, the stadium's chief ticket man, announced Tuesday. There were 1,773 tickets in the $1.10 section.

Burke said this was close to a record and indicated that the Levinsky-Walker bout will threaten the indoor record of 23,322 made by the Levinsky-Dempsey exhibition in February. It was estimated that the Levinsky-Walker bout will draw $75,000.

THANKS EXTENDED MR. AND MRS. E. C. BANE FOR LIBERAL DONATION

Expression of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bane for the donation of property in South Brainerd for the establishment of a permanent baseball park was contained in a resolution voted by the Brainerd city council Monday night.

Property deed was received and accepted by the council for Brainerd. The property will be under the jurisdiction of the park board.

W. V. Turcotte, baseball enthusiast, outlined the necessity of two entrances to the park, one on Sixth street, the other on Seventh street. Property owners will be interviewed, he said.

Turcotte stated that a canvass for funds for construction purposes would be made soon.

Initial steps in the construction of the park will be clearing of land and erection of a board fence, he said.

SIDE GLANCES

"Make out to him like I'm awfully popular, and I'm just accepting this date because you talked me into it."

GEORGE CLARK puts more punch into less space than any artist we can think of. His daily drawing, "Side Glances," is only two columns wide, and one brief sentence is all the text he uses; but it is quite enough to make "Side Glances" one of the finest newspaper features of this day and age.

Combined with his outstanding talent as an artist, Clark has something else fully as important—a keen observation, a quick sympathy and understanding of what goes on about him.

"Side Glances" are little slices of life, as natural and as human as a kid and his dog, as wistful as old age harking back to youth. Rich in the tear-behind-the-laugh type of humor, which is the mark of the real humorist.

This feature is another of the outstanding ones to be found daily in

ENTRANCES NEEDED TO NEW BALL PARK

THANKS EXTENDED MR. AND MRS. E. C. BANE FOR LIBERAL DONATION

Expression of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Bane for the donation of property in South Brainerd for the establishment of a permanent baseball park was contained in a resolution voted by the Brainerd city council Monday night.

Property deed was received and accepted by the council for Brainerd. The property will be under the jurisdiction of the park board.

W. V. Turcotte, baseball enthusiast, outlined the necessity of two entrances to the park, one on Sixth street, the other on Seventh street. Property owners will be interviewed, he said.

Turcotte stated that a canvass for funds for construction purposes would be made soon.

Initial steps in the construction of the park will be clearing of land and erection of a board fence, he said.

PATROLMAN REED URGES SCHOOL PATROLS

CHIEF OF POLICE AND ARCHIE
FALCONER ALSO ADDRESS STUDENTSSUPERINTENDENT COBB INTRO-DUCE SPEAKERS OF THE DAY

Patrolman R. A. Reed of the Minnesota Highway Patrol gave severe faith concerning school patrol systems. Mr. Reed, with the aid of American Legion, has organized school patrols in several sections of the state. These patrols, as Patrolman Reed stated, are to protect the children of school age.

The School Safety Patrol System, which will probably go into effect next school year, will have boys as patrolmen who will wear the official insignia and will have a stop sign of the flag type.

Archie Falconer, as a representative of the Brainerd American Legion, augmented Patrolman Reed's talk on the Safety Patrol. He also asked the students to attend the Memorial Day program as representatives of their school.

Chief Thomas Templeton warned the students of the increasing evil of parking on the sidewalk west of the school, stating that it was not only destructive to the walk but unpleasant to pedestrians.

Supt. Cobb introduced the speakers and gave several important points in connection with the talks.

BRAINONIAN
STAFF PLANS
YEARLY BANQUETCOMMITTEES PROMISE SUCCESS-FUL BANQUET

Thursday evening the Brainonian annual and weekly staff will hold their annual banquet. This event, which is the biggest get-together of the members of the staff, should be as successful as in the past.

Plans for the dinner were started at the last weekly meeting when the editor appointed several committees to make arrangements. Fran Reese, Myles Hall, Anna Cass and Cyril DeRosier will have charge of the entertainment for the evening. The decorations and the food will be looked after by Kathleen Cardie, Mae McQuillan and Alyce Little.

The expense of the banquet will be shared by the staff members instead of taking the amount from the annual funds as has been done in the past. Every member of the staff is urged to be present.

MARCH CALENDAR

March 1. Junior class play acclaimed success from huge attendance.
 March 2. Basketball season came to a close but track is just around the corner.

April 1. Ask Miss Richard who was the biggest fool.

YE EDITOR

Last Friday morning Patrolman R. A. Reed in his address to the student body stressed the need of the organization of a School Patrol in the Brainerd high school.

An organization such as this has proved to be very efficient in the grammar schools throughout the state and would undoubtedly be of great service to a high school of this size, and through organizing a strong "Student Council" having the power to enforce all school laws and rules the patrol system would be highly effective.

RELAY TEAM TAKES THIRD PLACE AT
STATE TRACK MEETCAPTAIN BILL HOLMAN JUMPS
5 FOOT 8 BUT FAILS
TO PLACE

At the Minnesota track meet held last Saturday the Brainerd squad proved themselves worthy of recognition by placing the relay team in the third berth. This can be considered a great honor, as the squad was running against the finest competition schools from the rest of the state could offer.

In the high jump, Captain Bill Holman jumped 5 foot 8 inches only to fall on the next height. This is fine jumping and with more practice he will undoubtedly prove to be the best in the state.

In the pole vault, Jerry Wygle made 10 feet but was eliminated at 10 feet 3 inches. This was the closest phase of the entire meet, two men tying for first berth and two for third.

BRAINONIAN ANNUAL
SKITS ARE GIVENPICTURES OF PAST ANNUALS
SHOWN TO STUDENT BODY

Wednesday morning a clever skit for the purpose of advertising the Brainonian Annual was given before the student body at the regular assembly time. The action opened with Anna Cass and Leslie Dryburgh rushing madly before the curtain. Anna then asked Leslie to go to Robert Crust with her to look over some old annual.

When the curtain rose, Bob Crust and Allan McKay were seen tinkering with a movie camera and telling the guests all about the history of the Brainonian Annual. Finally the machine was fixed and Robert proceeded to show pictures of such notables as the class officers of the senior class from the first year book (called the Cyclone), a picture of Miss Tornstrom "way back when," another of Mr. Cobb in the estimate of some artist, a quartet, and ending up with pictures of the old school before and after the fire, and the present building as we see it today.

Harold Strickler concluded the program by announcing the price of the annual, $2.25. He also gave the point that if we all bought Brainonians in the future years we wouldn't have to go rummaging around at the neighbors to see the pictures of old school acquaintances. And if three hundred aren't sold by Wednesday there will be no annual. So buy your annual now!

Miss O'Dell Addresses
Joint "Y" Meeting

A joint meeting of the Tri-Hi and the Hi-Y clubs was held last Monday evening in the social club rooms of the Y; Miss O'Dell being the speaker of the evening.

Her talk was based on delinquency and child welfare work. She also gave a few statistics of the various cases of which it is the duty of the Child Welfare Board to deal with.

After the Hi-Y was dismissed, the Tri-Hi held their regular business meeting. Miss O'Dell was present at this meeting.

A tea will be given Saturday afternoon, April 16, in the cafeteria for the mothers and daughters. The entertainment committee was chosen as follows: Marjorie Forsberg, Frances Reese and Mary Hoffman. The food committee was also chosen at this time with Dorothy Opsahl, Hildegard Holm, and Harriet Halvorson acting as members.

BRAINERD HIGH CONCERT BAND
ELECTS MALVIN NEWMAN PRESIDENTFRANCES PETERSON, DOROTHY OPSALH, LEE CLARKSON AND
FERDINAND FREDRICK-
SON ALSO CHOSEN

The result of the business meeting of the band, held last Thursday, showed that the following officers were elected: Malvin Newman, president; Frances Peterson, secretary; Dorothy Opsahl, treasurer, and Lee Clarkson and "Fritz" Fredrickson, librarians.

This was the first election ever to be held in a high school band and the newly elected officers can rightfully feel proud to be the first to ever hold positions in their respective offices.

The others "running" for president were Bill Johnson and Harold Anderson, while in the fight for the secretaryship Alice Moe proved a most effective combatant, losing only on the second ballot, and then by but one vote. Dorothy Opsahl found competition in Toisto Pohjola and William Johnson. The librarians, Clarkson and Fredrickson, were unanimously elected.

The winners, other than in the secretaryship, won by a good margin. This election was held mainly for the purpose of obtaining leaders to guide this comparatively young organization through a concert, to be held at a later date and to complete plans for a trip to Minneapolis, at which time the band will perform over WCCO. The band has now received two invitations to play and all members are looking forward to the trip with much pleasure.

It was also decided at the last meeting that, in case of necessity, the secretary will act in place of the president.

The aforesaid concert will undoubtedly consist of outside talent as well as local artists and the band. The money raised through this program will be used to secure permanent band uniforms.

The question pertaining to whether or not the band is to continue practice through the summer months was left undecided. If this latter question is decided in the affirmative, there will be public concerts given every two weeks during the summer.

Director Ellertson had charge of the meeting throughout and presented some of the problems. He also listed some of the invitations, recently received, and suggested that the members accommodate as many lodges and individuals as possible.

All members and interested individuals are now looking to the new administration for a most successful concert and trip, and a "bigger and better" Brainerd High School Concert band.

The meeting adjourned at about 8:45 o'clock when all members were given a candy bar by Mr. Ellertson.

TYPING PARTY
HUGE SUCCESSMURIEL BEDAL AND HAZEL HILL
HEAD ENTERTAIN-MENT

Last Friday night at 8 o'clock Miss Ruthe gave her typing classes a party in the cafeteria.

There were two teams, the "Losers" and the "Winners," the "Losers" entertaining the "Winners." "Spook," "Fig," "Bunco," "Fruit Basket Upset" and many more games were played and enjoyed by everyone as the entertainment committee and Miss Ruthe saw to it that there were no "wallflowers."

Lunch consisted of ice cream, cheese sticks, date nut cookies and coffee.

After lunch a program was given in which Muriel Bedal tapdanced; Hazel Hill sang "When the Blue of the Night Meets the Gold of the Day" and "When It's Sleepy Time Down South." Both girls were encored. Audrey Erickson, who accompanied them, later played songs in which the whole of the groups sang.

Everyone enjoyed themselves so much that they agreed to have a picnic later in the year, the winner this time being those who have written three tests thirty words a minute or more by the end of the six weeks.
